EULCID

Hope: And Songs To Sing 12"

Released: January 2007

Pressinginfo: 300 Copies (250 black, 50 clear-greenish)

INFO

EULCID was active from April 1998 to April 2002 and played 251 All Ages shows in nearly every state. The band has not played live since 2002 but has completed a new album of songs mostly written around 2001-2002. Eulcid was totally independent, a world away from the commercial underground music of the day and uninterested in continuing the cycle of the „boys only“ mentality of punk. Simply Eulcid played for „everyone in the room“. Though the band never officially broke up, with all three members spread between NYC, N.H. and Asheville, N.C. respectively they have no intentions of playing shows or recording more anytime. The driving force behind the band Mike Law, formed the trio originally with Travis Shettel of Piebald and Kurt Ballou of Converge. After only a few practices it became obvious that the three members schedules were too conflicting. For Mike Law a search for focused, like minded musicians began immediately.
